

Back end architecture

Account creation flow

On the next page(profile setup), the connector will input the client's participant_id and phone number, and select themselves from the list of connectors click "submit"

- If there is no client_info that has the entered participant_id , it returns an error.
- Else, a user is created, with its auth_id set as the currently logged in identity's id, and the name and phone taken from the form
- The matching client_info is found by searching for the one with the correct participant_id. Its user_id is set to the new user's id, and its connector_user_id is set to the connector user's id.